Jeffrey Fields Opens at Fountain Gallery

Heritage resident Jeffrey Field's work was featured in the Winter 2001 issue of Haelu. Three of his acrylic paintings were featured: "Heart Breakers" "Self Imposed" and "And Who Said Life was Easy" These pieces are characterized by mask-like figures and geometric abstract forms in bright and earthen saturated colors.

On March 5th Jeffrey opened at Fountain Gallery, along with two other artists (Ricardo Delmar and Gail Shamchenko). The Opening was a festive and well-attended event. Jeffrey's contribution included paints and works on paper, and drew the interest and admiration of guests, including collectors.
